Human about insurance

I joined An Post Insurance straight after school. I was done with sitting in a classroom or lecture theatre and I wanted money in my pocket. The job benefits and the opportunities looked good and it was a brand I knew and liked. Insurance sales is perfect for me because I'm competitive. I like to constantly test myself, improve myself – make the next sale, get to the next level. An Post Insurance gave me a chance. With the support and encouragement of the company, I completed some Insurance exams (APA) which have broadened my qualifications and helped me to make the jump to Sales Team Leader. Now, I have a team who report to me. They're a super team; we pull together – like everyone in An Post Insurance. There are great people in An Post Insurance – it's just that we need more of them.
